

BLOOPER'S FILM CO.: SUMMARY

In the early 1960s, as Hollywood's golden age faded and on-location filming became more common, Blooper's Film Co. found a creative way to keep the glamour alive. This movie studio opened its doors to offer guests the ultimate shoot-your-own-movie experience, capturing the dreaminess of storytelling in a movie multiverse.

At Blooper's, guests can explore five unique movie settings: Wild West, Lost in Space, Imaginarium, Seascape, and Super Realm. Each setting is a fully immersive environment, complete with professional filming equipment, props, and costumes, all ready for telling your story. Whether you want to mix and match or shoot your entire film in one setting, the choice is yours! The equipment is pre-programmed and easy to control via touch screens, so guests can focus on the fun of filmmaking without needing a camera crew, although technical assistants are there to help when needed.

Before shooting, guests spend time in the planning room, where they can draft their movie and generate sample scripts using artificial intelligence. Once filming and editing are complete, the real fun begins. You're invited to your very own movie premiere, complete with a red carpet entrance, because you are the star of the day! It's a dream come true, filled with laughter, creativity, and maybe a few bloopers along the way, all shared with friends.
