Through screens and motion-detection technology, visitors will be able to interact with each scene, resulting in splashes of water, gusts of wind, bubbles, and more. After the interaction, they will be prompted to scan their shell on either Elusiphe's or Coralia's touchpoint, granting them access to the next room.